G'day Stephen.

First of all: since this question isn't even vaguely related to problems with Ubuntu Upstart and OpenVZ it would have been polite to start a new thread.

Even if you had bothered to change the subject line there are a bunch of internal headers your mail client inserts that tell other mail software what you replied to.

As a result of this your message was specifically highlighted to me as part of a response to my post -- and being irritated because it has nothing to do with the subject at hand doesn't incline people to help you very much. :/

Regards,
Daniel
