Subject: Re: Logging traffic stats for VEs
Posted by dev on Thu, 10 May 2007 10:09:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ian P. Christian wrote: > Thorsten Schifferdecker wrote:
>
>>Hi Ian,
>>
>>a) use the /proc/net/dev of your VE:
>>
>># vzctl exec <VEID> grep venet0 /proc/net/dev | cut -d":" -f2 | awk
>>'{print $1"\n"$9}'
>>
>>xxx >>xxx
>>
>>b) or, VE has enabled sysfs:
>>
>># vzctl exec <VEID> cat /sys/class/net/venet0/statistics/{r,t}x_bytes
>
>
> These would both be reset on a customer rebooting their VE wouldn't > they? Is there any way a user of a VE could manipulate the figures in > either of these places?
yep. if you want non-resetable counters then add iptables rules in VE0 for VE IP addresses. And then read these statistics via iptables -L -v

Thanks,
Kirill