
Subject: Re: PPC64 Kernel 2.6.18 + RPM packages
Posted by Alexey Dobriyan on Wed, 23 May 2007 12:57:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Wed, May 23, 2007 at 04:41:03PM +0400, Kirill Korotaev wrote:

```
> Christian Kaiser2 wrote:
> > [root@s10b10-0 vzctl-3.0.16]# /etc/init.d/vz start
> > Starting OpenVZ:                                [ OK ]
> > Bringing up interface venet0:                    [ OK ]
> > Configuring interface venet0:                    [ OK ]
> > vzctl set 0 --cpuunits 1000 failed: Setting CPU units: 1000
> > fairsched_chwt: No such file or directory > > WARNING: Settings were not saved and will be resetted to or[FAILED]alues on > > next start (use --save flag)
> >
> > What is "fairsched_chwt"? And why is it missing in my configuration?? An VE > > creation works fine:
>
> this is due to not set CONFIG_FAIRSCHEM option in your kernel .config file.
```

It would return -ENOSYS then?
