Hi!

Is it possible to share common files between VEs to save disk space on the host?

I mean, if I have 10 different VEs all running same version of e.g. Debian Etch - do I need complete installations of each Debian-distro in /vz/private/### or could I share some system-files/directories? I guess it could both save disk space and also make it easier to update each VE

Any thoughts on the matter?
