That is too early to ask, since first developers needs to grasp a hardware, but there's still no hardware.

Speaking of multi-processor systems, OpenVZ should run fine and scale well even on up to 32-way SMP boxes. And _any_ VPS can use up to all the CPUs in the systems, as long as they are available.