I'm working with IPCop for sometime now on VMWare Server without any problems. Works like a charm! I don't see why a firewall couldn't be in a virtual environment. Do you foresee any security issues when running IPCop as a virtual computer?

Furthermore I do not understand your remark about the default VE and the virtual networkinterface. Are you saying that there maybe not enough services to tackle the networkinterfaces on IPCop? I could use more hardware networkinterfaces if there's a problem on the virtual side?
