That does NOT necessarily mean you do not have network on your VPS. It can mean one of several things but the most likely is that your VPS is not able to resolve DNS properly. Did you set a --nameserver in your VPS?

If so, do a "service iptables stop" on hardware node and see if that makes a difference. If so, you need to resolve the software firewall issues.

I'm not sure where you got the idea that OpenVZ is not compatible with CentOS 5 or vice versa.
