Ok, from what I've seen... everything looks good... but it still isn't working, eh?

So, you can ping the VPS from the HN... and it answers. Can you browse to the VPS's webserver?

I'm sure there is some minor typo somewhere that is the cause of the problem... but like you... at this point I've grown a bit weary of the back and forth of the forum... and it would be nice to just login to the hn and poke around.

Is iptables running on the VPS? If so, stop it. I don't think it is running by default... but it doesn't hurt to check.

What OS template did you install in your VPS?
