Just so you know, I believe they have made many of the parameters more friendly now and you can use more human readable notations... so for example:

--diskspace 10G:10G

or

--vmguarpages=nnM:nG

vzsplit doesn't use the simpler notation though.

I must admit I think all of my configs have the older style notation... so it wouldn't be a bad idea to test that out before converting all of your configs.
