Subject: Re: openvz naming conventions; numeric vs symbolic Posted by kir on Tue, 21 Aug 2007 12:21:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Steve Wray wrote:
> Kir Kolyshkin wrote:
>> Gregor Mosheh wrote:
>>
>>> Steve Wray wrote:
>>>
>>>> Steve Wray wrote:
>>>> There seems to be a slight inconsistency across the tool set here.
>>>> vzctl does respect the given 'name' however vzquota does not appear >>>> to and seems to require the numeric id.
>>>>
>>> Quite true. Did you check the bugtracker for the project, or log that >>> as a bug? I'd love to see that fixed!
>>>
>>>
>>>
>> Can you tell me the use case for that? I mean, I never use vzquota >> directly; it's vzctl that calls it whenever needed.
>>
>> I guess you use vzquota show or vzquota stat and want to use VE name >> instead of ID, is that right?
>>
>
> Well, on the basis that consistency is a Good Thing, yes.
>
> I'm only just getting started with OpenVZ so am unsure of the real use > case for this. But I am busily finding the things that confuse, > confound or seem inconsistent :)
>
OK, I filed a bug for vzquota with minor severity, it will eventually be fixed:
http://bugzilla.openvz.org/show_bug.cgi?id=668