

---

Subject: Re: error using vi in VE but no beans?

Posted by Steve Hodges on Mon, 27 Aug 2007 03:19:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On 27/08/2007 9:16 AM, Gregor Mosheh wrote:

> Steve Hodges wrote:

>> E297: Write error in swap file

>> E303: Unable to open swap file for "rc.local", recovery impossible

>> "rc.local" 17 lines, 387 characters

>

> That's vi saying that it can't save a backup of the file (yeah, "swap > file" really intuitive) That's probably just a permissions issue. Are > you able to manually create and then delete a fake swap file named

> .rc.local.swp ?

>

It turned out to be a disk quota issue.

GOOD: the VE didn't chew up all the available disk space (as it would have in a couple of hours)

BAD: the violation of the disk quota doesn't show up in user_beancounters

I discovered it when I tried to create a file using echo xxxxx > file

Steve

---