Subject: Re: strange errors

Posted by khorenko on Thu, 06 Sep 2007 14:52:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi,

well, looks like you have no any other way but to find who ate the diskspace. The very first idea is to check logs - might be something in kernel (/var/log/messages) or any application went wrong and it began to write messages about the problem at a high rate and thus filled the disk. At the same time if you did switch off the quiotas any VE user also could fill the disk.

Good luck in the search.