To start with, there is no sense to free that memory used by cache -- it will be freed as soon as it will be needed. It's just Linux doesn't waste resources -- but rather uses them wisely.

To continue with, this is not a problem, and this is in no way OpenVZ-related.

To end with, here are some more info on topic: http://gentoo-wiki.com/FAQ_Linux_Memory_Management http://sourcefrog.net/weblog/software/linux-kernel/free-mem. html
