
Subject: Re: Physical server to OpenVZ
Posted by Stefan Kok on Mon, 17 Sep 2007 11:20:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks for the replies. Its helped a lot.

Stefan.

On Sat, 2007-09-15 at 13:44 +0400, Kir Kolyshkin wrote:

> P2V migration is described in http://wiki.openvz.org/Physical_to_VE, > that involves some manual tuning.

>
> V2P is also possible but don't make much sense to me -- it's way better > to use VE than a real server.

>
> Stefan Kok wrote:

> > Hi List

> >

> > I am brand new to OpenVZ. I will get straight to the point.

> >

> > I want to backup physical servers on remote sites with tar/dump and > > restore them at our central office to virtual machine. Once disaster > > strikes move the virtual server to a new physical server and transport > > it to the remote office.

> >

> >

> > My question:

> >

> > 1) Is this possible (backup physical server and restore to virtual) ?

> > 2) If so is there any documentation / HOWTO's or pointers that you could > > give please ?

> >

> > Thanks in advance.

> >

> > Regards

> > Stefan.

> >
