
Subject: Re: irq0 stops working

Posted by Thomas Gleixner on Tue, 09 Oct 2007 06:23:33 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Tue, 9 Oct 2007, Vasily Averin wrote:

> Jan Engelhardt wrote:

> > On Oct 9 2007 09:26, Vasily Averin wrote:

> >> On one of our servers timer interrupts (i.e irq0) are stops working. As result > >> any kernel timers do not triggers and tasks waiting some signals from timers > >> hangs forever.

> >

> > What kernel.. and tried CONFIG_NO_HZ=n?

>

> Originally I've noticed this issue on RHEL5 kernels, but then I've reproduced it > on latest mainstream kernels, in my last attempt it was 2.6.23-rc7.

>

> Thank you for for your tips about CONFIG_NO_HZ=n, will try to to it.

You run a 64 bit kernel, where this option is not available yet.

tglx
