Are you using a RHEL4 kernel configuration against a patched vanilla 2.4.18 codebase or did you configure the kernel options manually? Ideally, I'd like to keep this machine as "stock" as possible.

About amd, at my work, the auto.net, etc. mounter files are also distributed via NIS which is a pretty good solution.

Anyway.. I'll give this a try though I think I need to send a message off to the developer list to see if anyone is looking at this.
