Subject: Re: Numerous segmentation faults on VE start
Posted by sgwestrip on Wed, 24 Oct 2007 16:08:50 GMT

Thank you for your reply.

It seems as though this VE was compromised with a rootkit named 'Whatis' and had changed 20 or so binaries in /bin. What is more alarming is that from the VE it had managed to changed the same binaries in /bin on the hardware node. I was surprised that this was even possible from the VE.

Anyway, it is all sorted out now. Thanks for pointing me in the right direction.

Stephen Westrip