
Subject: Re: [PATCH net-2.6.25 1/6][CORE] Remove unneeded ifdefs from sysctl_net_core.c

Posted by ebiederm on Mon, 03 Dec 2007 11:06:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Pavel Emelyanov <xemul@openvz.org> writes:

> Eric W. Biederman wrote:

>> Pavel Emelyanov <xemul@openvz.org> writes:

>>

>>> They include the whole file, but it is already compiled >>> out when SYSCTL=n, since it is obj-$(CONFIG_SYSCTL) target >>> in the Makefile.

>>

>> Pavel thanks for sending these patches. Might I ask >> for some level of acknowledgement when you rework one of >> my patches and send it off.

>

> Sure. I though I've been doing exactly this thing. I've said > that unix ctls were from your tree and so on.

Ok. I guess I must have overlooked that attribution.

>> I suppose this could be a case of duplicate thinking but >> this patch looks very familiar.

>

> Hm... Do you mean that this one is from your tree? Sorry then,

> I didn't know this. I can resend it with From: <you> if you wish.

It is. But I don't see any of this as needing a resend. Please just don't forget me in the future is all I ask.

Eric
