Subject: Re: strange problem with nagios nrpe server
Posted by dev on Thu, 06 Dec 2007 08:35:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Steve Wray wrote:
> Gregor Mosheh wrote:
>
>>The good news is that I use Nagios with our VPSs, and it works brilliantly.
>>
>>
>>>include_dir=/etc/nagios/nrpe.d
>>>I have found that while this directive works under Xen this does not >>>work under openvz.
>>
>>I find that surprising. Are you sure that the permissions didn't get >>mangled when you copied it over to ovz? That's the first thing I'd >>check: making sure that /etc/nagios/nrpe.d is in fact a directory, and >>that's readable by the user who runs nrpe (user nagios?).
>
>
> Believe me, thats the first thing I checked.
>
> I've run nrpd under strace and see nothing out of the ordinary; it finds > the correct number of files in the nrpd.d directory. Not much of a whizz > with strace tho so don't know where to go from here.

Can you take strace -f -o somefile <nrpe> from both working (Xen) and non-working (OVZ) installations?

Is it possible to get a login with exact instructions how to reproduce the issue on your box? this would help to resolve it ASAP and make sure it's not a black magic :@)

Thanks,
Kirill