Posted by dny on Sun, 30 Dec 2007 13:41:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Dec 30, 2007 4:20 PM, <caricand@lifc.univ-fcomte.fr> wrote:
> In your virtualbox host, not virtualbox VE, do you have network ?
> Can you ping your host machine and/or outside your network ?
>
>
>

yes. off course.

i can access my router, access point, other computers, etc...
i can ping, browse, messenger, voip, bittorrent, everything.

btw. it's important to make this clear!
openvz run outside virtualbox. not inside virtualbox!
this is how i setup my system:
http://wiki.dennyhalim.com/centos-with-openvz-and-virtualbox my computer even accessible from internet.

i setup sshd which is accessible from the whole world for my tunneling use.

but the ve is not accessible from the lan and cant access other lan too.
all pc, host and ve, everything is in same subnet.