I've got a new debian etch VE (template pulled off of the templates page), and I can connect to the internet and all that good stuff, but I'm having a problem when I try to install packages. Lets say, for example, I do an apt-get install mysql-server. It starts off fine, but then very shortly will just stop while it's getting a package for the install. After a while (4 minutes I suppose), it gives a connection timeout, and moves on to the next bit. It doesn't seem to be a problem with the host though; if I take the address to the file it's downloading, and do a wget from the HN, it downloads it without issue in no time flat. Does anyone have any ideas?
