2.6.20+ kernels are development ones. This means, that they are not as stable as 2.6.18 is and some of them (2.6.20 and 2.6.22) are no longer supported.

But why can't you use the 2.6.18 kernel? Are there any functionality missed or API changed? Please report and we'll try to solve these issues.