Subject: Re: Change date on a VPS
Posted by lst_hoe01 on Mon, 10 Mar 2008 14:47:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Zitat von Arjan Schrijver <arjan@anymore.nl>:

> Hi,
>
> For my employer I would like to set up a NTP timeserver. However, this > must be done in a VPS since we don't want to use a new server for that.
> While experimenting, we found that a VPS cannot set the time on its > host node. Is it in any way possible to give the VPS the rights to > adjust the time?
>
> Kind regards,
> Arjan Schrijver

Have a look at page 64 in the OpenVZ User-Guide. You have to set the capability for the VPS to alter the system time. Be aware that this alters the system clock of the HW-Node and therefore for all VPS running on that node.

Regards

Andreas

--
All your trash belong to us ;-) www.spamschlucker.org
To: stephan@spamschlucker.org