Subject: Re: Monitor Beans
Posted by jpastore on Fri, 18 Apr 2008 00:34:15 GMT

I think if it were easier to understand what resources really translated to in beans in plain english it would easy to set variables and describe them with comments.

For example:

this should be at least X each represents this much mem being used etc...
$max_numothersock = 500;

it wouldn't be hard to do math and set a limit being that var...this way you can conserve resources and increase as needed...I would still keep the notices coming until you reach the max failure point.

If you would be willing to do the research and documentation I can try and make some time this weekend to code it.