
Subject: Re: Problems with Debian sid VE
Posted by rmello on Sun, 04 May 2008 14:12:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Sat, Apr 19, 2008 at 11:23 AM, Roberto Mello <roberto.mello@gmail.com> wrote:

>
> When I run selinuxenabled I get a 1 exit code. And then there's this > (also provided in the selinux-utils package):
>
> I have no name!@o2:/# getsebool
> getsebool: SELinux is disabled
>
> But still no go. Anyone who knows SELinux knows what I need to do to > really disable it in a VE?

Just to report, I haven't been able to figure out how to solve this yet. Everything I check says that selinux is disabled, but everytime I restart the VE, the problem reappears.

Roberto

--

<http://blog.divisiblebyfour.org/>
