Steven,
it looks like driver build script issue:

devel package in rhel5-based kernels contains the Makefilea and headers required for build of third-party modules.
But 2.6.9 is rhel4-based, it does not have devel package beacuse of Makefiles and headers are already included into kernel RPM -- and it enogh for build of any third party modules.

Also I would like to ask you -- lpfc driver is already present in this kernel (it was compiled into kernel, not as module) and should work well. Could you please explain -- why you want to build new driver? Are you tried to use old one?

thank you,
Vasily Averin
