
Subject: Re: broadcast messages on venet0
Posted by den on Fri, 30 May 2008 06:33:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

- broadcasts incoming to a VE are dropped
- outgoing broadcasts gone to the HWN like to the router and not routed further as usual, so you'll see nothing in eth0. This is normal. The interface is point-to-point so other VEs do not see this packet.

Regards,
Den

On Thu, 2008-05-29 at 16:06 -0400, Zhaohui Wang wrote:

>
>
>
>
> Hi all
>
>
>
> Any one knows the internal mechanism for broadcast messages on venet0?
> Virtuozzo Networking - venet0 Mode
>
>
>
> When I try ping -b 192.168.1.255 inside the ve, I got know > response. TCPdump outside VE on the host showed something on venet0, but > nothing on eth0. When I do something outside VE, at least tcpdump > will show the ping request message on eth0s.
>
>
>
> It seems that venet0 dropped the broadcast messages?
>
>
>
> I also tried
>
>
>
> Ifconfig venet0 broadcast 192.168.1.255, but the system does not allow me > to do this?
>
>
>
> My template is ubuntu804, and host openvz kernel is ovz004. I found > alias, right? Any clarification?

>

>

>

> Anyone has some idea to get the broadcast message get through?

>

>

>

>

>

> Thanks in advance

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

> Best Regards

>

> Zhaohui Wang

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>

>