I solved the problem. Today, I boot from the liveCD again and it asks me to set a password. So no problem now.

Yesterday, I booted the computer but left before setting a password. After some time, perhaps 10 mins, I came back and it showed me the normal login of CentOS. I tried empty password, but it did not work. Maybe that was because I didn't set a password and CentOS may use some default password.

Thanks for the information.
