Subject: Re: unlock iptables in netns
Posted by Patrick McHardy on Mon, 16 Jun 2008 11:21:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Pavel Emelyanov wrote:
> Patrick McHardy wrote:
>> Alexey Dobriyan wrote:
>>> On Mon, Jun 16, 2008 at 12:26:03PM +0200, Patrick McHardy wrote:
>>>> By the way, is there already work done for conntrack/NAT namespace >>>> support? I have this patch that uses marks for something very similar >>>> that should be easy to adjust.
>>> Yes, right now I'm fighting something which looks like double free >>> of conntrack during clone(CLONE_NEWNET)/exit test despite none created >>> in netns. And unknown to me dimensions of input and output packet codepaths.
>>> :^)
>>>
>>> Preliminaty details:
>>> struct nf_conn::ct_net which pins netns
>> From the VLAN code, I thought namespaces could also be identified >> numerically. That would reduce the size increase of struct nf_conn.
>
> Numerically? I made VLAN-s netnsization, but everything was spinning > around the struct net pointer. Can you elaborate on this?

I think I just misunderstood the meaning of vlan_net_id.