Subject: [Fwd: Re: [PATCH] iproute2: add support for IFLA_NET_NS_PID in ip link v2]

Posted by Daniel Lezcano on Mon, 23 Jun 2008 16:08:43 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

FYI.

Thanks.
 -- Daniel

-------- Original Message --------
Subject: Re: [PATCH] iproute2: add support for IFLA_NET_NS_PID in ip link v2
Date: Mon, 23 Jun 2008 09:02:12 -0700
From: Stephen Hemminger <shemminger@linux-foundation.org>
Organization: Linux Foundation
To: Daniel Lezcano <dlezcano@fr.ibm.com>
CC: Benjamin Thery <benjamin.thery@bull.net>, netdev@vger.kernel.org,
    "Eric W. Biederman" <ebiederm@xmission.com>
References: <20080620090734.144305411@theryb.frec.bull.fr>
<20080620092109.551812772@theryb.frec.bull.fr> <485F59ED.2080404@fr.ibm.com>

On Mon, 23 Jun 2008 10:08:13 +0200
Daniel Lezcano <dlezcano@fr.ibm.com> wrote:

> Benjamin Thery wrote:
> > Ah, ah, of course I forgot to refresh the patch before sending it. :)
> > There was still a small typo in the patch: a '}' was put instead of > > a '|' in 'ip link' usage string.
> >
> > Here is the updated patch.
> > Sorry for this.
> >
> > Benjamin
> >
> > Description:
> > ------------
> >
> > This patch adds support for the IFLA_NET_NS_PID type. It is used to > > move network devices between network namespaces.
> >
> > The syntax is:
> > ip link set DEVICE netns PID
> >
> > PID is the pid of a process in the target network namespace.
> >
> > (Daniel Lezcano is the original author).
> >

> > Signed-off-by: Daniel Lezcano <dlezcano@fr.ibm.com>
> > Signed-off-by: Benjamin Thery <benjamin.thery@bull.net>
>
> Hi Stephen,
>
> we posted this patch several times and we had no response.
> I suppose you are very busy and you had no time to answer.
> Can you briefly tell us what do you plan to do with this patch ?
>
>
> Thanks
>   -- Daniel
>
I am doing a new release. It is in the list of things to go in.
But was holding off until other issues resolved. It will go in today.
_____