

---

Subject: Re: running with no limits?

Posted by Benoit Branciard on Wed, 09 Jul 2008 07:58:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

> No answers? Its been a while...

>

> We have a bunch of openvz VMs, nothing 'in production'. The host has 4G > of RAM. I want all the VMs to have access to 4G of RAM and all the > sockets and other stuff that they may need at any time; I don't have > time to carefully tune the parameters of all of them to just what they > need and no more.

>

> I don't mind or care that they are over-committed I just want them to > have max resources.

>

vzsplit -n 1 -f max-limits

then for each container NNN:

vzctl set NNN --applyconfig max-limits --save

--

Ce message a ete verifie par MailScanner

pour des virus ou des polluriels et rien de suspect n'a ete trouve.

---