I've experienced the same behavior and found that a simple "rpm -qa" ran inside the VE (either via 'vzctl exec' or entering the VE and running it inside) solves the issue

HTH

edit: unfortunately, this fix isn't permanent and the issue reappears as soon as the VE is restarted as mentioned above
At least this workaround doesn't need the installation of yum inside the VE