Subject: Re: VE memory misconfigured / misreported
Posted by csigman on Thu, 21 Aug 2008 16:11:37 GMT

So, I guess the problem is that the swap and actual ram are shared from the ve's perspective, and java apps might allocate a huge amount of ram, but generally this is mostly in swap. I've toned down the memory usage of some of the java parts and that makes it so that it's using a lot less, but still not the most ideal setup. Luckily this is development, and production isn't in a VE.