Subject: Re: "cpus" config option and "--set cpus" issue
Posted by n00b_admin on Fri, 16 Jan 2009 18:41:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Do not attempt to convert the rpm packages to deb since there are some pre and post install scripts that will fail on debian based OSes since they rely on redhat specific tools.

I tried a RHEL kernel rpm package on an Ubuntu box as well and that left my deb package manager in an inconsistent state blocking any package install/removal attempts.

Please be careful with this, I recommend checking out the kernel sources and building by hand if your skills allows this.