BTW, I do not believe openvz is dead. I think the developers are focusing their effort on the RHEL kernels and commercial kernels. When red hat uses a 2.26.3X kernel in there next RHEL product I expect to see a openvz kernel for that.

Edit: Hmm 2.26 sounds more like gnome although they would never have a 30th patch release. I meant RHEL 6 having a 2.6.3X kernel
