Hello!

After posting on 26/12 we started trying to identify which VE was responsible for the crash. So we kept half of the VE's on one server and moved half to another. After that it stopped crashing.

Since no one had replied with same event, I thought this could be a race condition we would never experiment again.. Now as I see you had the same problem, it is time to start getting worried again

If you are despaired and can't find a solution I suggest you to move half of VE's to other nodes and try to identify the one that is responsible (and keep this one isolated).
