
Subject: Re: Kind of a strange one: NFS
Posted by maratrus on Fri, 12 Mar 2010 17:34:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi,

Quote:

Can I use yorktown's large drive as an nfs store, not only for saratoga but for the entire network and still use it as an openvz HN?

Theoretically you can. But as I can see there are some problems with mounting yorktown's nfs share. It doesn't seem to be an OpenVZ issue. But if you feel like blaming OpenVZ don't hesitate to provide your arguments Search engine may help you to solve that problem.

Quote:

Can I mount saratoga's drives from somewhere (ideally yorktown) and use the CTs on an nfs mounted partition?

It should work. At least with RHEL5 based kernels.
http://bugzilla.openvz.org/show_bug.cgi?id=219

Quote:

How many licks does it take to get to the center of a Tootsie Pop? (or am I showing my age with this one?)

The world may never know. Is this the right answer?
