If your using Samba then you will need to use veth. I haven't done too much with veth but why don't you test it out? I have yet to see any network degradations with openvz, from my testing with Xen, OpenVZ proved to have a lot less overhead and ease of use.

The wiki is great, it will pretty much guide you to do whatever you need to do.

Maybe this guide will help you get started: <http://wiki.openvz.org/DHCP>
