However, if I restart the host, the nameserver is reset to the host's IP again. Actually it is reset to an IP that the host USED to have when networking was configured with DHCP on eth0.

It is my bad. Actually the automatic reset of the nameserver's IP address is solved by:

vzctl set VE_ID --nameserver <IP-ADDRESS> --save

but still, I need to DSL as a gateway to go public. I guess if the host is properly configured, it could be used as a nameserver for the VE. Actually I can ping from the container but only public IPs not domains.
