
Subject: Re: [patch 2/6] [Network namespace] Network device sharing by view

Posted by Ben Greear on Tue, 27 Jun 2006 17:19:23 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Eric W. Biederman wrote:

> Herbert Poetzl <herbert@13thfloor.at> writes:

>

>

>>On Tue, Jun 27, 2006 at 05:52:52AM -0600, Eric W. Biederman wrote:

>>

>>>Inside the containers I want all network devices named eth0!

>>

>>huh? even if there are two of them? also tun?

>>

>>I think you meant, you want to be able to have eth0 in >>_more_ than one guest where eth0 in a guest can also >>be/use/relate to eth1 on the host, right?

>

>

> Right I want to have an eth0 in each guest where eth0 is > it's own network device and need have no relationship to > eth0 on the host.

How does that help anything? Do you envision programs that make special decisions on whether the interface is called eth0 v/s eth151?

Ben

--

Ben Greear <greearb@candletech.com>

Candela Technologies Inc <http://www.candletech.com>
