
Subject: Re: Question about the changed kernel
Posted by shule ney on Mon, 14 Mar 2011 15:18:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Here I mean the kernel that I'm now using is not the vanilla or redhat installing OpenVz?

2011/3/14 Scott Dowdle <dowdle@montanalinux.org>

> Gene,
>
> ----- Original Message -----
> > Hi,all. I got a question about the kernel: I changed the linux kernel > > due to some reason, I know using Openvz has to patch the kernel > > before. But this is the history, now can I use Openvz upon my > > changed kernel with the regular installation process, is there > > anything I should do??
>
> I don't really understand your question. Did you compile your own kernel > and are asking how to install it?
>
> TYL,
> --
> Scott Dowdle
> 704 Church Street
> Belgrade, MT 59714
> (406)388-0827 [home]
> (406)994-3931 [work]
