

---

Subject: Re: yum update : vzeventmod

Posted by Ales on Wed, 20 Apr 2011 17:58:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I really think you are confused about something here... Stock kernel and ovzkernel do not conflict in any way. Accidentally booting into stock kernel should not require remote hands to fix, you can simply log in to hardware node remotely, change grub.conf setting so that ovzkernel is set as default and reboot again. That's it.

---