There must be a problem with that kernel that comes up when you migrate VPS's. Ended up causing me to delay my upgrade plans for probably another year. That is good that you filed a bug report.

The OVZ kernel guys are pretty sharp and seem to be actively maintaining things. Kernel updates are happening fairly regularly. Only thing I noticed is they all seem to be Eastern European and some are not so fluent in English. So some people might interpret that as lack of support or understanding.

At least that's my theory...
