
Subject: Re: sync in container

Posted by Aleksandar Ivanisevic on Tue, 13 Mar 2012 10:39:25 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Andrew Vagin <avagin@parallels.com> writes:

> * You can disable fsyncs inside the VE by writing 0 to > /proc/sys/fs/fsync-enable on the HN. This means that all fsyncs > inside VE would be very fast as fsync actually doesn't happen.

Are there any docs about this sysctl? I've googled and searched the openvz wiki and all I found is the announcement that it has been added some time in 2008 with no further explanations.

One would think that it should be pretty straightfoward; 0=off, 1=on, but on all my systems it is set to 2 which makes me wonder if there is more to it.
