So what happened to vzctl attach?

I tried running those commands above but nothing happens. I just get a blank screen. I can see udev run when I reboot. I can detach with the Esc . but it's not clear to me exactly what I would use this for.

I thought it would be the same as if in console mode on a normal Linux server where I could issue commands and watch things start up when it reboots. That doesn't seem to be the case so what would I used this for?
