

---

Subject: Re: OpenVZ RHEL6 is much more stable now
Posted by mustardman on Sun, 29 Jul 2012 16:21:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

In general I have found the VZ RHEL6 kernel to be stable for some time now. I only use kernels that have been out for at least a month with no major reported problems so that usually means I am running one behind the latest. I have a few with moderate loads and they have been as stable if not more so than my RHEL5 nodes for months now and I have no problem upgrading all my RHEL5 nodes at this point when I get an opportunity.

OpenVZ continues to be an impressive project imho.

---