
Subject: Re: [PATCH v2] SUNRPC: check current nsproxy before set of node name on client creation

Posted by Stanislav Kinsbursky on Mon, 10 Sep 2012 15:55:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

> On Mon, 2012-09-10 at 19:37 +0400, Stanislav Kinsbursky wrote:

>> Hi, Trond.

>> So, if I understand you right, we can create rpc client (or increase usage >> counter) on NSMPROC_MON call and destroy (or decrease usage counter) on >> NSMPROC_UNMON call.

>> Will this solution works?

>

> The rpc client(s) will need to be per-net-namespace, which complicates > matters a little bit, but yes, creation at NSMPROC_MON, and destruction > at NSMPROC_UNMON should work.

>

Not really. We already have per-net Lockd data. So, adding one more reference-counted rpc client doesn't look that complicated.

Ok, thanks. I'll try to implement this.

--

Best regards,

Stanislav Kinsbursky
