Subject: Re: [PATCH v7 09/10] IPC: message queue copy feature introduced Posted by Michael Kerrisk (man- on Thu, 18 Oct 2012 12:09:09 GMT View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

- >> Is there somewhere a *detailed* description of how this feature would
- >> be used? Lacking that, it's really hard to see how anything sane and
- >> reliable can be done with MSG_COPY.

>>

>

- > These patches are used by CRIU already.
- > So, you can have a look at the CRIU source code:
- >
- > http://git.criu.org/?p=crtools.git
- ;a=blob;f=ipc_ns.c;h=9e259fefcfc04ec0556bb722921545552e1c69f 3;hb=HEAD

>

- > Sanity and reliability on the level you are talking about can be achieved,
- > only if you'll freeze all message users before peeking.

Okay -- that's the piece I was looking for. Thanks.

In this scenario, how do you find all of the message users? Or do you simply ensure that everything is frozen beforehand?