
Subject: Re: Kernel 3.2 / Debian 7 hypervisor
Posted by NIXin on Thu, 18 Apr 2013 17:33:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

At our company we've made a successful switch to LXC, because of OpenVZ being deprecated by both Debian and Ubuntu - and as the infrastructure administrator I don't look back to OpenVZ, although both platforms have their own quirks.
LXC is now on it's way to be well supported on Ubuntu Server, and some of its features are just brilliant.
