Actually this happens across several HN's all using the same kernel (2.6.32-042stab079.5)

The nodes are not running network shaping.
The switches are also not using rate limits.
We have tested with and without swap.
We have tested with several distros same results.
No failcount issues.

Ofcourse we have tested with the HN's we've done 4 weeks + testing being solusVM are not helpful :)~ eliminate as mush as possible network hops (switches, routers, etc.) It is not the problem the problem is on the node.
